This year has been a hard year as my father, brother of my grandmother and my grandfather all died. This has made me very sad. But I want to start working hard and reading so hard that I can improve in the subject which I am failing to understand and not to forget what I have learnt so that I should be getting better grades. My favourite class is chemistry, mathematics, English, social studies and biology.

The school year was good because there is electricity which made me able to study and pass my examinations but the biggest challenge at home is that my father died and he helped me by buying uniform. I also live a distance from the school so would benefit if there was a dormitory for boys. Next year I will work hard again at school and at home. It is the key to success in the future.

I have learnt a lot at school this year. There are problems though as there aren't many resources like note books and uniform, and my parents cannot afford these things because I have a brother. Because of this, I have learnt that I must create my own business when I finish school so I will work hard and attend all classes and avoid absenteeism.

To tell the truth, this year was okay but sometimes I was in trouble and sometimes I wasn't. The biggest challenge is the distance to walk to school. There is also a lack of technology at school to use. I have learnt that it is important to work hard if I want a good future. I have to depend on myself to do this and not on anyone else. Next year I will improve in my reading and study more to improve my grades.
